Barsebäck G & CC

Barsebäck G & CC (1969), links, parkland and woodland course on the Öresund coast, north of Malmö. Voted Sweden's best golf course and one of the top ten courses in mainland Europe. A true championship course. Host for major international and national tournaments. Beautiful scenery.

History

The first 9-hole course was opened by Rolf Clarkson on 11 May 1969. The original course consisted of the present holes 1, 2, 10-15 on The Old Course. The 9th hole had its tee on the present 18th hole on The New Course and a green that now comprises the green on the 18th hole on The Old Course.

On 21 June 1970, the County Governor, Gösta Netzén, opened the first 18-hole course (The Old Course). In September 1980, nine new holes were opened – these holes later became the first part of the present Donald Steel Course. Ture Bruce designed the holes and Gösta Carlsson opened the course. In 1989, the full Donald Steel Course was completed. Gösta Carlsson had consulted the famous course architect, Donald Steel, on the final design and modifications to the first nine holes. Barsebäck thereby became the first club in Skåne with 36 holes.
