Ljunghusens GK

Ljunghusen GK (1932), links and heathland course by the Baltic Sea. Relatively difficult if you do not stick to the fairway, as the heather that lines all the fairways is very troublesome. Host for international and national tournaments. Beautiful scenery.

History

Ljunghusen is one of Sweden's oldest golf clubs. The club was formed in 1932 and in 1965 became the first club in the country to have 27 holes. Ljunghusen is one of the few links courses in Sweden, built on a foundation of sand from the time when this formed the seabed.

The course is usually playable all year round thanks to the porous and permeable sandy soil. The course is situated in a nature reserve and is beside a protected wetland heath. Several of the holes are just a few metres from the white sandy beaches of the Baltic Sea.

Restaurant

Every day you can choose between the dish of the day and other dishes in a variety of price classes.

Directions

From Malmö follow the E6 motorway towards Trelleborg, then take road no. 100 towards Skanör-Falsterbo. Approximately 500 metres after crossing the Falsterbo Canal bridge turn left at the traffic lights (signposted). Follow Störvägen and turn into Kinells väg, which leads to the golf club.
